

Naiki Website - Visual Direction Specification (VDS)

Purpose

Define the visual language that Claude Code must follow. This document takes precedence over generic design patterns. The goal is to recreate the premium editorial feeling of the supplied reference while using Naiki's own content.

Global Layout

The entire website exists inside ONE persistent floating canvas centered on a warm off-white browser background. The browser background must remain visible around all sides during scrolling. Canvas: max-width 1600px, width 90vw, radius 32px, subtle border, soft shadow, generous outer margins.

Design Principles

No Bootstrap-style sections. No repetitive stacked cards. Every viewport should feel uniquely art-directed with editorial composition, oversized typography, generous whitespace and asymmetric layouts.

Viewport 1 – Hero

Sticky navigation inside the floating canvas. Massive headline occupying roughly half the viewport width. Supporting copy beneath. Two CTAs (Donate, Get Involved). Large authentic hero image integrated into the composition, not simply placed beside text.

Viewport 2 – About

Alternating two-column layout. Large image on one side, mission story on the other. Editorial captions, subtle overlaps, generous spacing.

Viewport 3 – Programs

Four premium editorial panels instead of equal cards. Alternate image placement left/right. Rounded 32px corners, 48px padding, hover lift, soft shadows.

Viewport 4 – Impact

Large animated numbers dominate the screen. Use whitespace and visual hierarchy. Statistics should be accompanied by supporting captions and imagery.

Viewport 5 – Stories

Full-width editorial photography with testimonial overlay. Carousel transitions should fade smoothly rather than slide aggressively.

Viewport 6 – Gallery

Masonry gallery with varying image heights. Lightbox on click. Images should feel documentary-style and authentic.

Viewport 7 – Get Involved

Three editorial panels: Donate, Volunteer, Partner. Each uses different composition to avoid repetition.

Viewport 8 – Footer

Large closing statement, newsletter, contact details and social icons within the floating canvas. End with a strong donation CTA.

Typography

Bold display typography. Hero 96–120px desktop. Large section headings. Sans-serif such as General Sans, Inter or Geist. Typography should drive the composition.

Spacing

120–180px between sections. 48px internal padding in major cards. Whitespace is intentional and should never be reduced to fit more content.

Motion

Smooth scrolling, fade reveals, staggered entrances, subtle parallax and hover elevation. Avoid flashy animations.

Photography

Only authentic community, education and volunteer imagery. Avoid generic corporate stock photography.

AI Rule

Treat every viewport as a bespoke editorial composition. Avoid generating repetitive Tailwind landing-page layouts. Prioritize storytelling, asymmetry, composition, whitespace and premium motion throughout.
